Benson Warns Against Costly Price Supports

Defends Proposed New Farm Program Before Committee

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson warned today that city-dwelling Americans may revolt against the whole idea of farm price supports if the program gets too costly.

Benson made the statement before the Senate Agriculture committee in defending the administration's proposed new farm program which calls for flexible and generally lower price supports on basic crops.

Farm state congressmen generally have been cold to the proposal. They favor continuation of present law requiring rigid high supports.

Benson said the present program has piled up huge surpluses in government warehouses and the government's losses "are likely to be substantial and they might be staggering."

"Ask Up To Billion To Ask Up To Billion" — "We have reached the stage in our farm price support operations where we need to ask ourselves a few pointed questions," he told the senators.

For example: "At what point will the 140 million Americans who do not live on farms rise up—as they did in the potato fiasco of a few years ago—and demand no revision but outright elimination of all direct aid to agriculture."

Other highlights of Benson's testimony.

1. The administration will ask Congress to appropriate up to one billion dollars over a three-year period to finance shipment of surplus U. S. farm commodities to "friendly countries" as a form of foreign aid. The first installment of about 300 million dollars will be sought in President Eisenhower's budget for fiscal 1955 which goes to Congress Thursday.

2. Present farm prices are "evidence enough of the fact that current support prices do not mean high prices in the market place." Farm prices have been dropping steadily for two years although government supports have been fixed at 90 percent of parity on six basic crops.

3. "There is nothing new or revolutionary" in the idea of flexible price supports ranging from 75 to 90 percent of parity. It was part of the platform of both parties in 1948, and former President Truman advocated the flexible support system in a message to Congress that year. Congress wrote the principle into the farm laws of 1948 and 1949 but it has never been allowed to take effect.

But election-conscious lawmakers were hard to convince that now is the time to junk high price supports.

Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) said Sunday night that the flexible plan is "political dynamite" in some places and predicted it will be fought "vigorously" by some Republicans.

To Hold Full Hearings — And Rep. H. Carl Anderson (R-Minn.) chairman of the House Agriculture Appropriations subcommittee said he believes Republicans will lose Minnesota in the 1956 presidential elections if the flexible supports pass.

Two key members of the Senate committee, Sens. Milton R. Young (R-N.D.) and Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), both described the group as "a 9-6 against the flexible support before Benson's appearance."

The House Agriculture committee apparently is even more strongly opposed to the plan.

Despite the slim prospects of his committee approving the Eisenhower plan, Chairman George D. Aiken (R-Vt.), of the Senate committee said he will hold full hearings on the proposal. Aiken said he hopes that better understanding of the plan will bring more support.

The present law providing mandatory 90 percent supports expires at the end of the 1954 crop year. Unless Congress votes to extend them and makes it stick over a possible presidential veto, a system of flexible supports will go into effect automatically.

Three Local Guard Officers Plan to Resign

Three local officers in Company L, 130th Infantry regiment, 44th Division, of the Illinois National Guard are planning to turn in their resignations, one of them said today.

They are First Lt. Warren McCoy, First Lt. Charles Ferrell and Warrant Officer (jg) Marcellus Vinyard.

McCoy said the three are turning in their resignations because of the move which abolished the 44th division and left only the 33rd division in Illinois.

Instead of joining up with a National Guard company at Cairo or Carbondale or Mt. Vernon in the 33rd, McCoy said, the three probably will join up with a reserve unit.

Although the resignations are not completed, the three have secured the proper forms on which to turn in their resignations and they plan to do so, McCoy said.

Other officers in the old Company L company here are Capt. Henry Jordan, company commander who is still in service and attending school in Georgia; First Lt. Lindell Cummins, on active duty; and First Lt. William Fricker, working at Paducah.

Most of the men in the company already have been released from duty but many still have part of their eight-year obligation to finish and cannot quit outright if they have, it was pointed out.

However, both National Guard and reserve units are civilian components and men as well as officers can apply for assignment in a reserve unit.

Republicans File Congressional, State Senate Petitions

Three Republican nominating petitions have been filed in Springfield by late afternoon today in the 25th district Congressional race.

Incumbent C. W. (Runt) Bishop of Carverville has filed his petition for renomination and Ray J. Hawkins, Marion, and Jack D. Quarant, Golconda, have also filed their petitions.

No Democratic petitions have been filed so far in the Congressional district race.

For State Senator two Republican petitions have been filed today. Glen O. Jones, Saline county state's attorney, has filed his petition and Carl P. Jordan, McLeansboro, has also filed. No Democratic petitions had been filed by late afternoon.

Meek, Watson First to File In Senate Race

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Candidates for the April 13 primary election began filing nominating petitions today, touching off the 1954 Illinois political campaign.

Petitions for offices ranging from precinct committeeman to United States senator were accepted by the secretary of state's office here and by county clerks in the 102 counties.

First candidate for a major statewide office to file was Joseph T. Meek, Western Springs, who seeks the Republican nomination for the U. S. Senate seat held by Democrat Paul H. Douglas, Chicago.

Meek, 50, is executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Retail Associations.

Hayes Third To File

Deneen A. Watson, 40-year-old Chicago lawyer, filed his petitions for the GOP Senate race shortly after dawn. Watson is a native of Elizabethtown and formerly lived in Harrisburg.

Third Republican to file for the U. S. Senate was Edward A. Hayes, former national commander of the American Legion. Hayes, a former Decatur resident, practices law in Chicago.

Fight By Republicans

Douglas has announced his candidacy for a second term and is not expected to run into major opposition for renomination.

On the Republican side, a dog-fight is developing for the right to oppose Douglas. Half a dozen aspirants have announced their intention to see the nomination and more may follow suit.

Announced GOP candidates for senator include Park Livingston,

Pump Day's Supply Of Water Into Local Reservoir

The city got an approximate day's supply of water in the reservoir yesterday and last night.

After days of watchful waiting for enough water to start the six-inch pump up Middle Fork from the pumping station, "Congo" finally came through. Enough water came down the creek for the pump to be started.

The pump was turned on at 11:45 a. m. yesterday and the pumping continued until 4:30 a. m. today. Superintendent Amos Doom reported. Then the water ran out.

However, Doom said, there was hope that enough more water may accumulate at Congo station for a few more hours of pumping.

Fire Destroys Walnut Grove Baptist Church

Fire of undetermined origin yesterday afternoon destroyed Walnut Grove Baptist church and all its contents.

Boys passing by saw the frame building ablaze about 1:30 p. m. and it had burned before anything could be done to combat the flames.

The church is about four miles south of Harrisburg in Independence township, about a mile and a quarter west of Route 34.

Besides the building, a piano, church pews, song books and a power mower were lost. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

The Rev. W. P. Webb, pastor of the church, reported that while the church building was still afire the membership met on the scene and discussed plans for putting the building up again.

Then a call meeting was set for last night at South Walnut Grove school, where after services further plans were made. A building committee was appointed and Mrs. Beatrice McDermott of Harrisburg, Route 2, was appointed building fund treasurer. Any gifts to help restore the building will be appreciated and should be mailed to her, Rev. Webb stated.

Previously, this church burned in 1932.

Rev. Webb announced that all regular services would be held at North Walnut Grove school until the church is rebuilt.

Officers today continued their investigation of phony solicitations of funds for funeral flowers, with one lead being held.

This boy, 14, has admitted to officers that he asked for flower money in door-to-door solicitations and that he was the one who ran off with a $5 bill given to him by a South Ledford street housewife, who told him to go and get it changed.

No charges had been filed against the boy this morning.

U. S. Delegates to Big Four Meeting Will Reject Soviet Play for Parley with China

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officials said today that U. S. delegates to the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Berlin will reject Russia's plan for a world peace parley with Red China.

Three authorities said the United States will even oppose any long-winded discussion of the proposal in an effort to keep the focus of the Berlin meeting where it belongs—on the problems of Germany and Austria.

The Berlin conference gets underway Jan. 25 and it's considered a sure bet that Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov will renew Moscow's demand that Communist China be invited to five-power talks on world tensions. There's an outside chance he might even suggest that it be called in during the final stages of the Berlin conversations.

"We have said any participating government at Berlin can state his views on the prospect of the five-power conference, one U. S. official here said. "That shouldn't take too long."

"We don't expect any agreement on a later meeting with Red China. This meeting in Berlin has been called primarily to settle the German and Austrian problems. There is no place for a Far Eastern power in such a meeting — even if we recognized Red China."

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and his top aides will leave for Berlin Thursday. They will hold preliminary strategy talks with the British and French before going to the conference table with the Russians.

Before leaving, Dulles plans to confer with Soviet Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin on a time, place and agenda for a full-scale international conference on the President's atom-for-peace plan. The secretary expects to continue these preliminary discussions with Molotov in Berlin.

One of the reasons Molotov will bring up the five-power conference idea, it is believed, is to cover up the fact that Russia is unwilling to make any real concessions to unify Germany and Free Austria.

The Western powers accepted Sunday a Soviet "compromise" proposal that ended a deadlock in negotiations over the site of the forthcoming conference.

Petitions requesting the Harrisburg City Council to call a special election to vote on the proposal to build a new reservoir and improve Harrisburg's water supply have been filed.

Saturday, Jan. 16, was the deadline for filing the petitions as they had to be filed within 21 days following the publishing of the ordinance which calls for a $200,000 bond issue to finance the lake construction and other improvements. The ordinance was published Saturday, Dec. 26.

The petitions which have been filed contain approximately 652 names. They were left sometime Saturday night at the door of Olive Patterson, city clerk, who was not at home.

Attorney D. F. Rumsey, acting city attorney during the illness of Attorney Scerial Thompson, is preparing legal briefs for the City Council and the petition will be acted upon at the regular meeting of the council Tuesday at 7 a. m.

If the petitions are declared legal it will be mandatory to hold an election and receive approval from the voters of the city before work can proceed on the lake construction.

Five Point Plan Urged By President

Seeks to Help Relieve Burden Of Medical Costs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower recommended today that Congress establish a 25 million dollar federal re-insurance program to help private and non-profit insurance companies offer broader health protection to more families.

He also called for a greatly expanded vocational rehabilitation program to restore 660,000 disabled Americans to active working citizens in the next five years.

These were part of a basic five-point program Mr. Eisenhower recommended to help relieve the "serious burden" of medical and hospital costs so that "the means of achieving good health" will be "accessible to all."

In a special 3,800-word health and welfare message to the House and Senate, Mr. Eisenhower also:

1. Urged strengthening of research activities by the public health service, particularly in the fields of cancer, mental illness, heart diseases, dental problems, arthritis and blindness.

2. Proposed a new approach to federal grants-in-aid to states for health, child welfare and rehabilitation. He said states with smaller financial capacities should receive proportionately larger federal assistance. He also suggested part of the federal grants to states be set aside for "the support of unique projects of regional or national significance."

3. Presented a four-way plan for expanding construction of medical care facilities, including added federal financial help in building non-profit hospitals for the care of the chronically ill.

Chairman Charles A. Wolverton (R-N.J.) of the House Commerce committee already has introduced a federal re-insurance bill which calls for government guarantees on the benefits of acceptable health insurance plans. The bill would be similar to the federal guarantee on bank deposits through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Rejects Socialization

In laying down his health recommendations, Mr. Eisenhower rejected "the socialization of medicine." But he said the government could well commit itself to "certain national health goals."

"No nation and no administration can ever afford to be complacent about the health of its citizens," Mr. Eisenhower said. "While continuing to reject the government regimentation of medicine, we shall with vigor and imagination continuously search out by appropriate means, recommend, and put into effect new methods of achieving better health for all of our people."

Concerned because the total private medical bill of the nation now exceeds nine billion dollars a year, Mr. Eisenhower proposed that the government launch a "limited" re-insurance service.

Broader Programs

Purpose of this plan would be "to encourage private and non-profit health insurance organizations to offer broader health protection to more families."

He proposed that the 25 million-dollar capital fund to launch the re-insurance program be retired from re-insurance fees.

"The government need not and should not go into the insurance business to furnish the protection which private and non-profit organizations do not now provide," he said. "But the government can and should work with them to study and devise better insurance protection to meet the public need."

The President proposed extension of greater federal assistance to the states to speed up and expand the rehabilitation of disabled persons in order to return them to productive employment.

Mr. Eisenhower's hospital proposal also included federal assistance in the construction of non-profit medically supervised nursing and convalescent homes, rehabilitation facilities for the disabled and diagnostic or treatment centers for ambulatory patients.

Our Changing World

JUST A FEW WEEKS AGO—

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Gen. Omar Bradley Urged To Run For Senate; Bradley Once Advised Ike To Stay Out Of Politics; Eisenhower Modifies
His Stand Re Citizenship For Reds.

WASHINGTON. — Gen. Omar
Bradley, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and one of the great military men of modern times, has been approached by California admirers to run for the U. S. Senate, as a Democrat.

His reactions to the Senate approach are extremely interesting.
In the first place, Bradley is worried about money — which is understandable, since he has lived on a meagre salary all his life, and if he goes back on the federal payroll as a senator he would forfeit his retired Army pension.

But more important, Uncle Omar is worried about the principle of military men mixing in politics. He regards this principle as most important.

The trend started by MacArthur and Eisenhower is dangerous and should not be continued, he told California friends, for the military profession and politics don't mix.

A general, for instance, must be trained to insist upon military needs apart from any political considerations. The politician, on the other hand, must be willing to compromise. As long as military men don't have political ambitions, Bradley explained, they will perform their jobs fearlessly and without compromise. But once a political career lurks in the mind of a general, his military actions are bound to be influenced by politics.

Therefore, concluded Bradley, military men must stay out of the political arena.

It so happens that Uncle Omar gave exactly the same advice to his close friend, Ike Eisenhower, back in 1948, and this was one reason Ike refused to run for president at that time.

Bradley is intrigued at the idea of being a senator, however feels that he might make some contribution. But the negative factors outweigh the positive, at least for the moment.

Note 1 — Adm. Thomas Hart, a Republican military man, was appointed to the U. S. Senate after the war and served with honor and distinction. He filled the unexpired term of Connecticut's Sen.

Francis Maloney and did not run
for re-election.

Note 2 — Bradley was born in Missouri as a Democrat, but has never been identified with politicians one way or the other, though he was appointed by Truman to be Veterans' Administrator and later to the Joint Chiefs of Staff.
In each case he did an excellent job.

IKE MODIFIES RED STAND
President Eisenhower had a frank chat on loyalty probes with a non-yessing Democratic congressman the other day in which Ike conceded that some people may have misunderstood his recent statement that disloyal Americans be deprived of citizenship.

Ike told Congressman Harley Staggers of West Virginia that he referred (in his state of the union message) to those who committed treasonable acts to undermine the government. He did not mean former Communists who had been duped into joining the Communist party, but later renounced communism.

"I do not have the power, as President, to give citizenship to anyone, but I do have the right to restore citizenship to a felon who has paid the penalty for his crime," Eisenhower said. "If a convicted felon can come back and be a free man in a free world, then certainly those who espoused communism, but later repudiated it, should not be stigmatized by their fellow citizens for the rest of their lives. That's not the American way."

"I'm glad to hear you clear that up, Mr. President," said the West Virginia Democrat, "because I was a little confused myself by what you said in the state of the union message." Staggers then read to the President an editorial in the Wall Street Journal, stating in effect that the newspaper hoped Eisenhower didn't mean what its editors thought he implied.

Ike repeated his statement quoted above, then added: "I also did not mean to imply partisanship in what I said."

"Listen, Mr. President," replied Staggers, "this question is bigger than the Congress, the administration, or any one man. It's the most important problem that the nation faces today, and it will take our best brains to solve it. It is far more important than the job

the Hoover Commission is doing to reorganize the government.

"If the current investigations of disloyalty by various committees of Congress, competing for publicity, are allowed to continue, in two or three years there will be so much confusion in the public mind that political opportunists may be trying to outlaw the Democratic or the Republican party as un-American."

"I think you're right," replied
the President, adding that he was going to give serious attention to a bill Staggers has introduced, providing for a thorough probe of subversive influences by a 12-man commission of outstanding citizens, selected by the President, the vice president and the speaker of the House.

NAVY CONFESSES

Adm. Jim Holloway, the Navy's personnel chief, is in the Pentagon doghouse for sending a written statement to the House Armed Services committee without clearing it. Trouble was that he gave away Annapolis secrets.

The congressmen had requested
Holloway's views on an Air Force academy, and the admiral wrote a statement in favor of it, but buried deep in the statement was a confession that the Navy had been using high-pressure tactics on Annapolis midshipment to keep them from joining its chief rival — the Air Force.

When Deputy Secretary of Defense Kyes saw this paragraph, he ordered it struck out. He was told, however, that it was too late.
The statement had already been sent to Capitol Hill.

Kyes hit the ceiling, ordered that the paragraph be skipped over when the statement was read into the record. He hoped that Congress and newspapermen would thereby overlook it. Meanwhile, Holloway was called on the carpet
by his fellow admirals.

"What's wrong with the story?"
asked Holloway. "After all, it's true. We work over the midshipmen to keep them from signing up in the Air Force. We don't them join the Air Force. We teach them some things we don't want them to use against us later."

The truth, indicated his fellow admirals, doesn't always pay.

Where There's a Will — There's a Woman

CLEVELAND, O. — This just goes to show you if you have the determination you can do the job!
Mrs. Betty Thon became dissatisfied after living on one of suburban Parma's unpaved streets for six months.

She decided to see if something couldn't be done. The city informed her that no paving could be done, but if she wanted the street department would be glad to furnish certain materials.

That was fine, she told them, so
four truck loads of asphalt slabs,
three inches thick and up to two feet long, were dumped in her front yard.

All you need is a sledge hammer, muscle and ambition," she said, and ploved into the young mountain of black asphalt.

She banged away with her hammer and finally got the big black lumps broken down and spread evenly over about 100 feet of the dirt and gravel in front of her ranch style home.

"It took five days, but I'm satisfied," she said afterward displaying her hands with 11 blisters.

The German war bride's husband, Donald Thon, helped, but she did the bulk of the work.

IT HAPPENED IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS:

The Great Isolationist

By JOHN W. ALLEN

Southern Illinois University
CARBONDALE, Ill. — Southern Illinois has "exported" a number of young men who afterwards became famous. According to John W. Allen of Southern Illinois university, one of these was William Edgar Borah, a native of Wayne county, who later became dean of the United States senate and one of the most capable and influential members in its history. Few men have served so long, and surely none of such long service have been more independent.

William, one of ten children in the Borah family, was born in 1865 on a farm six miles northeast of Fairfield. He grew up there and attended Tom's Prairie school, the oldest one in the county. He also regularly attended the local Cumberland Presbyterian church, where the father was an active church leader.

As in most early homes, that of the Borah's had little reading material. It consisted of the Bible, Pilgrim's Progress, Life of Washington, Franklin's Autobiography, Night Scenes from the Bible, two or three of Scott's novels, an occasional newspaper, and by some strange circumstance a volume of orations by Robert G. Ingersoll.

Discussions With Father

Young Borah had a comfortable
and congenial home, a kindly mother
and an intelligent and able father.
It was the custom of his father to discuss and attempt to analyze the problems of the day with his son. In later years William expressed great appreciation for the way in which these discussions had influenced his thinking.
Though apparently tolerant and broadminded, the father was uncompromising as between right and wrong. To him each issue was to be decided strictly upon its merits, a standard that remained strongly evident in the son's thinking throughout his long career.

When William had completed the course of study at Tom's Prairie school, he was sent to Illinois Academy at Enfield for one year. Here he came under the influence of Professor Mark A. Montgomery,
a college graduate and by the account of numerous students, a most inspiring teacher. Literature, history and participation in the activities of the academy's literary society greatly influenced the young Borah. It was while a student there that he made his first political speech, capably substituting for a scheduled speaker who had failed to appear.

Admitted to Bar in 1889

Borah did not return to Illinois
Academy after the first year, staying at home and helping with the farm work. According to one account he was away from home

three weeks during the year, playing the part of Mark Antony with a troupe of Shakespearean actors.
This may partly explain Borah's great interest in the theatre and his unusual speaking ability.

In 1883 he went to Kansas, where he attended the University of Kansas, taught school, and studied law. Among his classmates were Herbert Hadley, William Allen
White, Fred M. Funston and Vernon Kellogg, all of whom later attained national prominence.

After admission to the bar in 1889, Borah established an office at Lyons, Kansas. In 1890, having had practically no clients during the past year, Borah decided to go to Seattle. When he reached Boise, Idaho, he found himself practically penniless. A careful study of the situation convinced him that Boise offered reasonable opportunities for a young attorney and he decided to locate there. In a few years he had built up the best law practice in Idaho.

Untractable in Senate

Borah's abilities were soon recognized and he was made prosecuting attorney. In this capacity he conducted the prosecution of Will D. (Big Bill) Haywood and others for the killing of Governor Frank S. Steunenberg during a strike at the copper mines. Clarence Darrow, perhaps the outstanding defense attorney of the nation,
was counsel for Haywood. Borah lost the case but was designated by Darrow as "the ablest man with whom I have ever contended."

At about this time Borah became interested in politics and entered the race for United States Senator, which he lost. When the next time for the election of a senator came, Borah organized and conducted a successful campaign.
He was afterwards re-elected five times.

From his first entrance into the senate, Borah proved somewhat un-tractable. Nelson Aldrich, powerful senator from Rhode Island, tried to coerce him without success. A portion of a letter that Aldrich received from an influential citizen of Idaho to whom he had written in effort to have Borah
"behave" indicates the new senator's independence. It follows:—"I want you to understand clearly in any case, I have no influence with Borah, and if you discover anyone in Idaho who does, I would be grateful to you if you would send me his name."

Borah's influence in the senate grew. Though many disagreed with him at various times, few questioned his sincerity or integrity and all respected his great ability.

Attacked League of Nations

After the close of World War I Borah opposed ratification of the Treaty of Versailles and led a bitter attack on the League of Nations. It was against our entry into the League of Nations that Borah appears to have attained his greatest fame as an orator. His opposition speech made in the senate on November 19, 1919 is considered as the greatest of his career. Some consider it as fully the equal of any speech ever made before the senate.

In none of his attacks on the Treaty of Versailles, the League of Nations or any other measure advocated by President Wilson, did Borah make personal attack on the president as so many others did.
The general high plane upon which he conducted his debates won wide praise. Wilson and a companion, driving on the streets of Washington shortly before the death of the ex-president, passed Borah. Wilson turned to his companion and remarked, "There is one irreconcilable whom I can respect."
Changeable, unpredictable, determined, unswerving, incorruptible,
hating intrigue, and cherishing

established institutions, the "Great Isolationist" continued to profoundly influence national and world affairs until his death in 1940.

Serving in the United States during the administrations of seven presidents, a Wayne county boy left an indelible imprint upon national affairs.

Bullet Strikes Windshield of Auto Driven by Woman

A St. Louis woman, Jewell Glen, narrowly escaped being shot at McLeansboro Sunday afternoon when a bullet struck the windshield of the car she was driving, State Policeman Adolph Sweat said today.

The shot, from the direction of a garage and service station, tore out the windshield and nearly hit her head.

Investigation revealed the garage and station both were closed that day but that boys had in the past been using a neighboring woods for target practice and it was presumed a wild shot had hit the windshield.

The woman's face was spattered with glass but she was not injured.

President Asks More Research In Major Diseases

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—President Eisenhower told Congress today that 25 million persons now living in America will die of cancer "unless the present cancer mortality rate is lowered."

He made the statement in his special health message, which called for expanded research on cancer, heart diseases, mental illness, arthritis and other major diseases.

Mr. Eisenhower cited these statistics: Cancer claimed 224,000 lives last year.

Heart diseases take more than 817,000 lives annually.

More than seven million Americans are estimated to suffer from arthritis and other rheumatic diseases.

Ten million living Americans "will at some time in their lives be hospitalized with mental illness."

Twenty-two thousand Americans lose their sight each year.

Diabetes "annually adds 100,000 to its toll of sufferers."

On the brighter side of the picture, Mr. Eisenhower cited these figures to show the nation's rapid health progress in the past half century:

The average life span has increased from 49 years at the start of this century to 68 years today.

The number of deaths from infectious diseases has dropped from 676 to 66 per 100,000 population in the same period.

In 1916, 10 per cent of the babies born in America died before their first birthday; today less than 3 per cent die in the first year. Maternal deaths have dropped from 622 to 83 per 100,000 live births in the same period.

New Italian Premier Fanfani Names Cabinet

ROME (U.P.)—New Premier Amintore Fanfani named a 19-man Cabinet today and prepared to seek a vote of confidence in Parliament next week.

Fanfani, who pledged to give the Italian common man a new deal, chose a team of 18 Christian Democrats and one independent technician.

As foreign minister he named Attilio Piccione, 61, a Christian Democrat right wing leader who can be expected to continue strong support of the European Army Plan, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and plans for European unification.

Fanfani's formation of a Cabinet staves off, if it does not end, one of Italy's most dangerous political crises.

His Christian Democratic Party can not itself command a majority in Parliament.

He must depend on their support, or at worst the abstention, of other groups in test votes.

It is expected that the vote of confidence will be held Jan. 26.

Blind Americans Today there are more than 200,000 blind Americans. They make up a metropolis of darkness larger than the population of Providence, Miami, Dayton or Omaha. Another 1,000,000 men and women are blind in one eye; and thousands of Americans have vision that is only barely useful.

THE ANGELS FELL

by Bruno Fischer

Helm said: "It takes a pretty stupid killer to hold onto a gun from Thursday night to Monday night when he knows that it can pin the crime on him." He sucked the flame into his pipe and appeared immensely satisfied when it ignited the tobacco.
That was all. I could go then. In the outer office the redhead was alone. I went downstairs, and in the building lobby I saw Hannah Rahn and Russ Handy.
He hardly looked like the same man. He was smiling, and I didn't remember ever having seen him smile before.
Some men needed pretty women to make them human.
"Paul!" Hannah had seen me and she came to me quickly.
She was in her light-weight gray coat with patch pockets. Her head was bare, giving her that vigorous windblown look. Her eyes were bright and clear in spite of the fact that she had had only those couple of hours of sleep in my car. Though Handy wasn't the only spectator in the lobby, she put her hands on my upper arms.
"Paul, it's—it's all right now."
"Sure," I said. "Dina is dead too. That makes it fine."

Six Teen-Age Youths Killed In Auto Crash

IMPERIAL, Mo. (AP)—Six teen-age youths were killed Sunday when their speeding auto crashed off U. S. 63 near here, hitting the concrete abutment of a railroad overpass.

The Missouri highway patrol said evidence at the scene indicated the northbound car was traveling 80 to 85 miles an hour when it went off the right side of the highway, careening into some guard rails and smashing into the concrete piling.

All occupants of the 1953 coupe were killed. All of them lived in St. Louis county.

The dead were Dena William Lamperson, 16, the driver; Lee Roy Massey, 17, and Donald J. Weber, 16, all of Rock Hill; Rollo Arnold, 18, Brentwood; Ronald Young, 18, Maplewood, and John Brengard, 18, Maplewood, who formerly lived at Witt, Ill.

Mrs. Gus Lamperson, the grief-stricken mother of the youngest boy, said the car was given to him last September and he "always promised he would be a careful driver."

Deep Divers

Whales can dive a mile below the surface and rise immediately without harm. A chemical adjustment of their blood cares for the variation in pressure.

I was hardly surprised after last night when on the golf course Hannah John had jumped on what she had thought was this briefcase.

I stood the four cylinders up on end on the table, like a child's blocks, and wondered how I could find out what was on them. The problem was solved when I had another look into the briefcase and found a long white envelope containing onion skin paper.

I read the first of the four transcripts:

April 8, 9:43 p. m.
Maudson: I got the money.
Shad: That's good.
Maudson: Only five.
Shad: That ain't peanuts.
Maudson: For this it is. We're in a tough fight for the nomination.
Shad: Yeah, and it'll cost more to get elected. I gave you five. I'll give you another five for the campaign if there's one.
Maudson: Willie, I need 50.
Shad: Say, George, you're talking about grand.

Maudson: You can spare it, Willie.

Shad: What's this, a hold-up?
Maudson: No Willie.
Shad: I don't like the way you sound.

Maudson: I certainly don't—
Shad: Who needs a senator, anyway? All they do is raise income taxes.

Maudson: Horace has voted consistently in the House to reduce taxes.

Shad: One state senator does me more good, personally, than a dozen senators in Washington.

Maudson: You know the answer, Willie.

Shad: Fifty grand.
Maudson: It costs money to win a nomination.

Shad: It costs for everything. You know how much I spend a year for—Maudson: Isn't it worth it to you?

Shad: There's a limit. If he gets the nomination you'll hit me up again for—

Maudson: There'll be plenty coming in when he's on the ticket.

Shad: You know what I don't like? You don't see Congressman Rahn asking me himself. He's too snooty to even talk to me.

Maudson: You know the facts of life. He can't afford to be seen with you.

Shad: My phone's working.
Shad: I'll think about it.

Maudson: You know how it is, Willie.

Shad: Yeah. So long, George.
Maudson: Goodby.

West Frankfort Trips Eldorado Eagles, 69-53

Eldorado suffered a 69-53 loss to the West Frankfort Red Birds Saturday night. The cage game was played at West Frankfort.

The Eagles were "way off the form" they flashed Friday night in taking a 61-58 overtime win from Johnston City. For West Frankfort it was the second win in two nights over a Saline county crew as the Red Birds won from Harrisburg Friday, 78-68.

Eldorado did all right in the early part of the game, leading 9-8 at the quarter, and held a five-point advantage late in the second period, then W. F. went on a ball-stealing spree and scored several set-ups to take the lead. At half-time the Red Birds were in front 27-25.

West Frankfort held the advantage throughout the second half of play.

Eldorado also lost the preliminary game, 54-35.

The Eagles will be idle until Saturday night when they will entertain Metropolis. Tuesday, Jan. 26, Eldorado will be at Zeigler, then they will participate in the Saline county tourney to be held at Davenport gym Jan. 29-30.

Bull Dogs Play At Benton Tuesday Night

Harrisburg travels to Benton tomorrow night for the only South Seven conference game on the Tuesday evening schedule and will face a team that beat the locals in a close game here in December.

Benton at present is holding onto third place in the standings with a 3-2 mark and Harrisburg is in the cellar. An upset victory could give the local young team just what it needs in its improvement program.

Mt. Vernon, after wins over Benton and Centralia over the weekend, now looks like it is going to win the conference easily. The Rams are undefeated in loop play and all other teams have lost at least two.

Romonosky Signs His Contract With Cardinals

John Romonosky of Harrisburg signed his contract as a hurler for the St. Louis Cardinals baseball club Saturday.

Romonosky, who has spent the winter in Harrisburg, will depart for training which starts Feb. 12 at Deland, Fla.

The main contingents report in Florida Feb. 25 but there will be a camp at Deland starting Feb. 12 for men who have been in service and others who need special attention. Romonosky, who was in service up until March, 1953, was invited to this camp and will go.

The big right-handed pitcher hauled for Lynchburg, Va., Columbus, Ohio and St. Louis last year, joining the major league team late in August and starting a couple of games in September.

This winter he has been working with an engineer's crew for the Southeastern Illinois Electric cooperative and has been keeping in shape playing independent basketball with the Harrisburg Dairy Brands.

According to scientists, there are 75 known diseases of animals that are transmissible to members of the human race at present.

Wasson showed a tremendous improvement against the Redbirds, scoring 17 points and doing some fine rebounding until he fouled out in a vitally important game.

Next to loaning him money, one of the quickest ways to lose a friend is to admire his wife's hat, and then discover he had criticized her extravagance in buying it.

All-America Way . . . No. 4

One National Basketball Association coach was warning his players against fraternizing with Jack Molinas of Fort Wayne back in early December . . . More than $50,000 a night was being bet on Fort Wayne games before the bookies grew wary . . .

One charitable institution in New Jersey learned last spring about Molinas' proclivity for money when it advanced the Columbia grad $112 for travel money to appear in a benefit game . . . And later received a bill from the airlines for that same travel . . .

Quotes from Cliff Hagan of Kentucky which show why he's an All-America: "You can get any rebound you want, but not if you want to be fouled." "Use the lines of the foul area as road maps leading to the basket" . . .

An NYU coach returning from South Bend extolled Notre Dame as "good and gracious hosts before and after the game" . . . He didn't say "during," maybe because the Violets lost by 35 points.

Bones McKinney says Bevo Francis will make a good corner man as a pro because he can shoot his jump from the outside . . .

The man who handles the loudspeaker for all basketball games in Madison Square Garden is John Condon, who lives in mortal fear he'll fluff a tough name like Walowac . . . And has a heckler behind him at every game who yells in Brooklynese, "Hey, I dare ya 'ttry dat one again!" . . . John Kundia, Laker coach laid up with ulcers, watched his team on TV over the national telecast on DuMont and swears it's the best seat in the house . . . "I finally saw a basketball game," he chuckles . . .

George Selleck, one of Stanford's Three Little Mice in basketball, has no right kneecap, stands only 5-8, but is touted as the Farm's best backcourt man in a decade . . .

Hughie Devore knew what he was doing when he took the Dayton football job . . . The Flyers will come back in football because of a perfect summer job setup at Wright Field . . . Bill Uhl, the 6-11 basketball center for Dayton, wears size 17 shoes . . . There's a 7-1 high school center in Philadelphia named Will the Stilt Chamberlain who, says Eddie Gottlieb of the Warriors, is ready for pro ball right now . . . and he still has another year of prep school . . .

The Stork Club and Sardi's of New York's sports and nightlife are Toots Shor's and Leone's . . . In a duel between the two Panchos, Segura and Gonzales, a Segura drive struck the top of the net and bounced back . . . He shrugged . . . On the next exchange, Gonzales hit the net, but his shot caromed over for a point.

Segura stared, spread his palms and muttered, "Science."

Rollins Leads Wildcats to 52 to 49 Victory

Carrier Mills Ace Scores 39 Points Against Attacks

A 39-point scoring performance by Oliver Rollins led Carrier Mills to a 52-49 victory over Carbondale Attacks Saturday night on the Carbondale floor.

Despite the fact Rollins racked up all but 13 of his team's markers, Coach C. E. Shelton labeled it a team victory. "All six boys seeing action did a fine job," Shelton related. Rollins was on the receiving end of several fine passes and made the most of all his opportunities.

Attacks led most of the way. They held an 18-15 edge at the end of the quarter and a 27-25 margin at the intermission. They were still on top as the game entered the final quarter, 41-35.

With Rollins leading the comeback, Carrier Mills sliced the margin to three points. At this point, with the clock showing six minutes to play, Attacks went into a freeze. The Wildcats, playing alert ball, managed to intercept three passes and convert them into points. Once in the lead, Carrier Mills would not be denied the victory.

The Wildcats outscored their hosts 17-8 in the final quarter with Rollins contributing 12 of the markers. The big "Cat center dunked in 12 in the opening quarter, nine in the second and five in the third. Attacks won the preliminary, 40-36.

Carrier Mills will be at home to Carterville Friday.

Dutch Harrison Wins Bing Crosby Golf Tourney

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—About all a guy has to do to win a golf tournament, it seems, is to get sick or suffer an injury of some kind.

Today's best lesson is E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, long known as the Arkansas Traveler who follows the sun on the golfing gold trail.

Harrison turned up sick, with the flu and assorted other aches, and rains for the $10,000 Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur golf tournament and all he did was drag down first money of $2,000 by the narrow margin of one stroke he finished ahead of Jimmy Demaret.

"I feel so punk that I can't seem to get any power off the tee," said Harrison after winning the 11th hole. "Maybe it's better that way. I never got into any trouble all through the tournament until that 18th hole on final round."

That was the one double bogey he had during the tournament. It gave him — and the 15,000 fans along the fairways — something of a scare. His second shot was in a sand trap against the wall. He was allowed to lay out with no penalty, but when he dropped the ball it was in a divot hole and he had to chip out again. He finally got down in seven after three putts. That gave him a round of 71 — and a 210 for the 54 holes. The first day he had 71, the second 68.

Demaret, who finished earlier had a 211, collecting $1,250.

The pro-amateur championship of the tournament ended in a four-way tie with best-ball scores of 193 for Bud Ward and Harvey Ward; Walt Burkemo and Lefty O'Doul; Art Wall and Gene Littler and Doug Ford and Monty Moncrief. Each team got $650.

East All-Stars Win Pro Bowl Game, 20 to 9

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Paul Brown's Eastern All-Stars presented the Cleveland Browns coach with his first win over Detroit's Buddy Parker when they caught fire in the second half of a tight clash with the West to take the fourth annual Pro Bowl game 20-9.

Brown, who landed in the loser's bracket in his seven previous meetings with the Lion mentor, sent his stellar team into the second half with a slim 3-2 lead Sunday to see Co-Capt. Chuck Bednarik swipe a Bobby Layne pass and run 24 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter that gave the East a commanding 13-2 lead.

The Philadelphia center, unanimously voted the game's most valuable player, also recovered a fumble that set up one of Cleveland tackle Lou Groza's two field goals.

The East scored first on an 11-yard field goal by Groza early in the opening quarter. New York Giant halfback Emlyn Tunnell recovered a fumble by Joe Perry of the San Francisco 49ers to set up the score.

The West lost out again when Ram halfback Dan Towler failed to go over the goal line from three inches out in the second quarter. But they took a safety shortly after when Chicago Bear's halfback Don Kindt nailed Cleveland's Otto Graham in the end zone.

Groza missed a 39-yard field goal in the middle of the third period, but came back quickly with a connecting 25-yarder to put the East ahead 6-2. With a minute left in the quarter Bednarik ran 24 yards to score.

Parker put San Francisco's Y. A. Tittle in to direct a 63-yard touchdown drive sparked by 49er Hugh McElhenny's 26-yard dash and a 16-yard payoff dash over by another teammate, fullback Joe Perry.

But the Eastern defense stiffened and Cleveland's Ray Renfro made a 25-yard dash over tackle for the final touchdown.

Indiana Beats Wisconsin, 90-74, for Fifth Loop Victory, Illinois Wins, 82-78

CHICAGO (AP)—Indiana's defending Big Ten basketball champions were "home free" for another undisputed title today, barring a defeat somewhere in the nine league games remaining which could give another team a chance to slip into a tie.

The Hoosiers, who won 17 out of 18 league battles last year, piled up their fifth conference win without defeat this season Saturday with a 90-74 decision over Wisconsin as Don Schlundt, defending individual scoring champion, canned 33 points.

Meanwhile Minnesota downed the other team still unbeaten in the conference, Iowa, with a 59-55 triumph at Iowa City. It was Iowa's first loss in four Big Ten games and left the Hawks in second place, a game and a half behind the Hoosiers.

But, unless Indiana stumbles somewhere along the way and suffers a defeat, neither Iowa nor Minnesota, also once beaten in three conference games, could step into a title tie. Should Indiana go the rest of the way without defeat, it would become the first team to gain a title without a loss in 11 years.

The Hoosiers will go after their sixth straight win of this campaign, and their seventh in a row over two seasons, tonight against Ohio State at Bloomington, although the Buckeyes boast two top scoring threats in Paul Ebert, individual scoring runner-up last year, and Robin Freeman, Indiana's balance, plus the individual brilliance of Schlundt and Bob Leonard, was figured far superior.

Two other games also were on tonight's program, Iowa at Illinois and Wisconsin at Michigan State. The home teams were favored in both scraps, and particularly Illinois, which hasn't lost at home to Iowa in 17 games over 26 years.

Iowa's last Huff Gym win came Feb. 24, 1928, when the Hawks posted a 41-27 triumph.

Illinois, too, boasted the league's leading scorer in John Kerr, whose 141 points over five games gave him a 28.2 average per game.

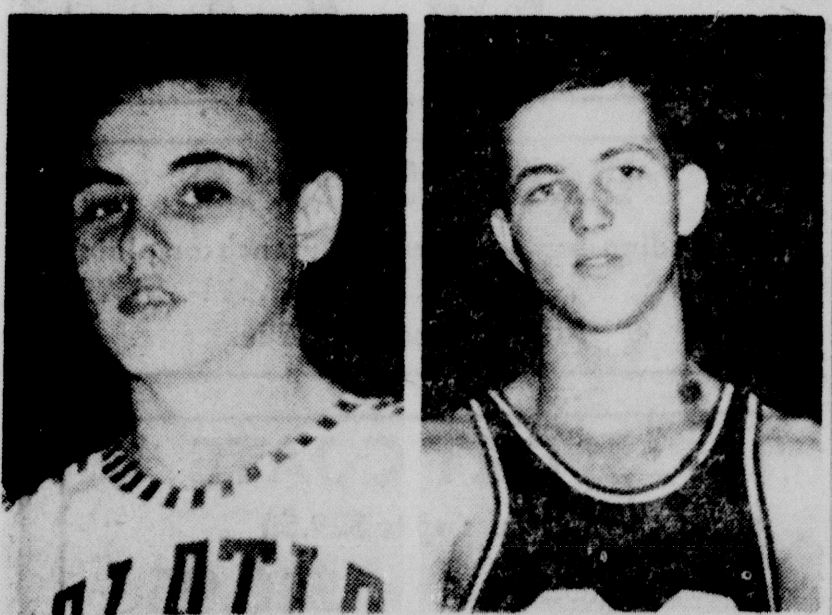

Schlundt had his best night of the season Saturday and grabbed second place with a 26.8 per game average. Behind them was Minnesota's Dick Garmaker with a 24.7 average and a 19 point performance Saturday.

Kerr dropped 23 points Saturday as the Illini won their second straight from Ohio State, 82-78, at Columbus.

In other Saturday games Michigan edged Michigan State, 64-62, on Don Eaddy's fielder in the last second, while Purdue broke a nine game Big Ten losing streak with its first win in four games this season, 78-63, over Northwestern.

Charge 'Poor Planning' by Voice of America

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's permanent investigating subcommittee charged today that it found "poor planning, reckless disregard for taxpayers' money, incompetence, stupidity or worse" in Voice of America transmitter projects.

It said in a formal report that two big radio transmitters were started on the East and West coasts where static would make them "useless to the extent that one very competent radio engineer referred to the mislocations as sabotage."

The subcommittee investigated the Voice of America last year when it operated under the State Department. The Voice is now part of the semi-independent U. S. Information Service.

McCarthy (R-Wis.) said he would take another look at the Voice's engineering program in a few weeks to see if there have been improvements.

The subcommittee report was immediately challenged by Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) for concluding that subsequent cancellation of the two transmitter projects "was in the national interest."

Jackson, one of three Democrats who quit the subcommittee, said in a statement that tests by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology "raise a serious question" as to whether the transmitter locations were mislocated.

Navy Pilot Steers Crashing Plane from Residential Area

ATLANTA (AP) — A Navy pilot who steered his crippled Corsair fighter away from a residential area to a crash landing warned his rescuers to stay clear of the flaming wreckage and shouted: "Tell my wife I died like a man."

But two daring Navy enlisted reservists reached into the cockpit of the P4U fighter Sunday to pull Lt. Cmdr. J. B. Kisner of Memphis, Tenn., to safety.

Kisner, 39, veteran of World War II and the Korean war, was reported in "good condition" at Veterans hospital here today although he suffered a dislocated hip and burns on his body and one arm.

A Navy spokesman said C. C. Gassett, a chief in the Navy reserve, and Clifford H. Ivey, also a reservist, risked their lives to

Introduces Bill to Increase Income Tax Exemptions to $1,200

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Frank L. Chelf (D-Ky.) announced today that he has introduced a bill to increase income tax dependency exemptions from $600 to $1,200 a year.

The bill also would increase the exemption to $1,800 a year when the dependent child is enrolled in college because, Chelf said, this is when "dad really has to sweat it out in order to make ends meet."

Senator Jenner Renews Attack On Gen. Marshall

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) renewed his attack on Gen. George C. Marshall Saturday night with a charge he helped rebuild China's Communist armies.

Speaking to Indiana American Legionnaires at their midwinter meeting here, Jenner said Marshall's policies enabled the Reds "to destroy the rear guard defenses of a little country called Korea."

Jenner, a bitter foe of the former secretary of state, attacked Marshall on the Senate floor several years ago as a "living lie." Marshall recently was awarded the 1953 Nobel Peace Prize.

The Hoosier Republican criticized Marshall's attempts to persuade Chiang Kai-Shek to form a coalition government with the Communists.

"Those were the months when victory was taken away from Chiang because the administration, speaking through General Marshall, told the Chinese leader we insisted on a truce with the Communists," Jenner said.

As chairman of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee, Jenner said he would next train his sights south of the border in an effort to uncover a Communist conspiracy against the United States.

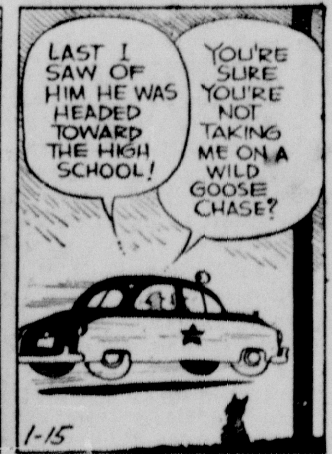

Jenner said he would try to learn if U. S. diplomats and officials helped the Reds penetrate some South American countries and whether Moscow-trained spies were slipped into this country from South America.
